DIES REPORTS ITALY, JAPAN EXPOSED NEXT

More White Papers Planned After One Attacking Nazi Activity.

INQUIRIES CONTINUE

Chairman Declares Foreign Espionage Destroyed By Publicity.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The Dies committee promised today to follow up its German "white paper" with companion reports devoted to alleged Italian and Japanese activities in the United States.

The material set forth in its "white paper" on German activities, the committee charged, was evidence of a closely-integrated scheme of Nazi espionage and propaganda in this country.

Informed sources said that an Italian "white paper," similar to the 500-page document released yesterday on German activities, was being prepared by the committee and would be transmitted to congress soon.

Committee investigators, meanwhile, were reported actively pursuing their inquiry into the operations of persons the committee believes to be identified with the Japanese government, but the form of the report on this material has not been determined.

Chairman Dies (D-Tex) of the committee said in St. Louis that the German report was "unique in American history" and that any "Nazi effectiveness would be destroyed" by its contents. It was Dies who gave the report its "white paper" title prior to publication.

Aides of Dies said that he had decided to take charge personally of inquiries now under way in many cities in the hope that activities of any agents unfriendly to the United States might be discredited.

Dies, himself, emphasized at St. Louis that he did "not intend to move against any innocent people, of whatever nationality."

He indicated, however, that the "white paper" his committee issued yesterday might not mean the end of the line of inquiry concerned with alleged German activities.

"I have a list of suspects who, I have every reason to believe,

Republican Wins Governorship of Kansas By 426 Votes.

TOPEKA, Kans.—(U.P.)—Republicans today celebrated the re-election of Gov. Payne H. Ratner to another term as governor of Kansas by the narrow margin of 426 votes.

From the Democratic camp of William H. Burke of Little River, there was no jubilation but there were indications that the election would be contested.

The close election had dragged on for more than two weeks and was not finally decided until yesterday when the last of the absentee ballots were counted.

Of the absentee vote Ratner received 4,398 votes and Burke 2,175. The total vote was: Ratner 425,923; Burke 425,497.

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Twin baby sisters three months old, died of asphyxiation as they slept in their crib today.

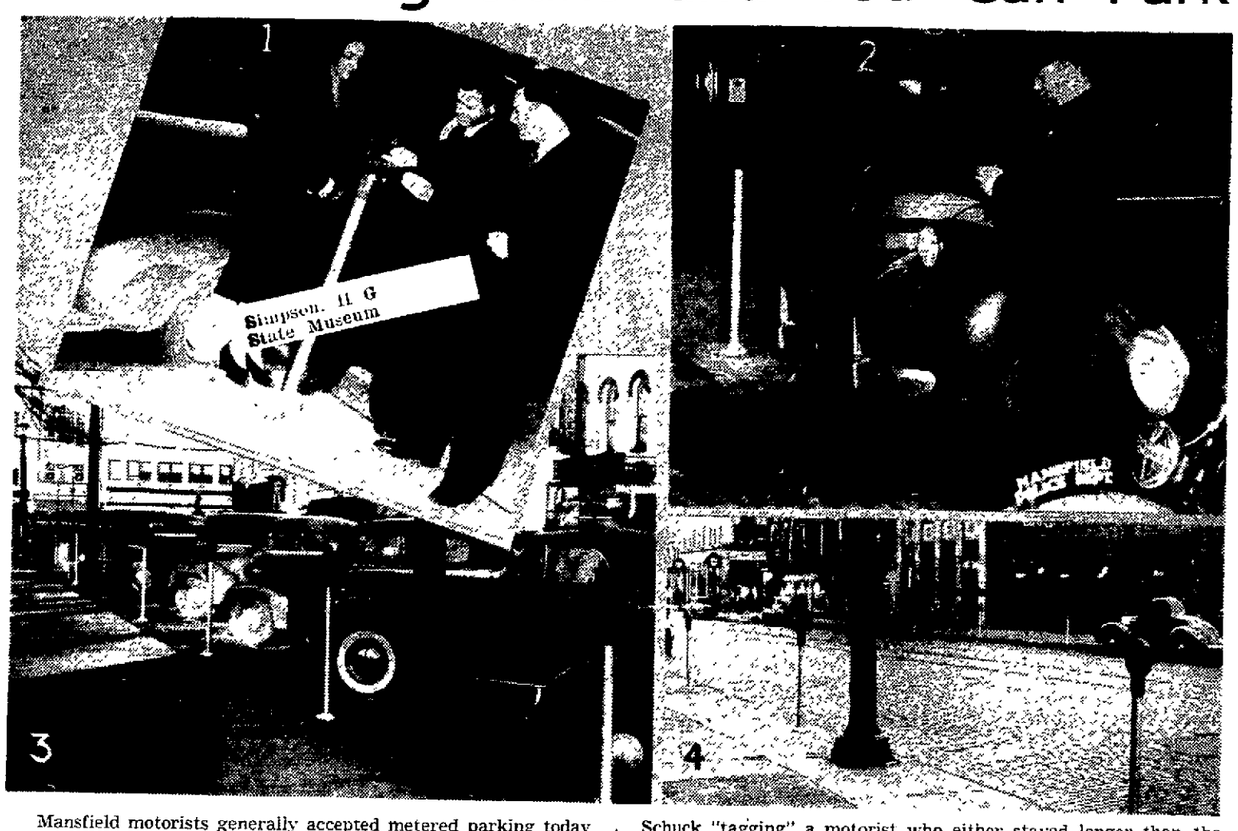
Meter Parking Starts—and You Can Park



Mansfield motorists generally accepted metered parking today with some confusion as 413 of the manually operated devices were placed in operation on downtown streets. Photo No. 1 shows Spencer Werden at the right with Mr. and Mrs. William Cady of Detroit, as Werden deposited his second nickel to get one hour's parking. The first time he turned the crank before the nickel settled into the coin hopper. Photo 2 shows Patrolman Howard Schuck "tagging" a motorist who either stayed longer than the alloted time or who failed to drop a coin in the meter at the left. No. 3 is scene on North Park street, the meter spaces filled as the coins began to jingle their way into the city treasury. No. 4 gives you some idea what downtown streets looked like at 9:30 a. m. as all-day parkers left their cars outside the restricted district. The photo was taken on Park avenue west between Mulberry and Walnut streets.

5 NAMED FOR ARMY TRAINING

Draft Boards Certify 5 And Prepare To Choose Sixth as County's First Trainees.

Five of the nine Richland county men scheduled to leave next Tuesday in the county's first selective service allotment had been certified today, while another was to be chosen this afternoon. The six are volunteers.

With the only two volunteers received by draft board No. 3 failing to pass their physical examinations, that board was faced with the problem of drafting three men and preparing them for camp by Tuesday—a task that appeared too great today.

The selective service law gives draftees the right to five days notice before leaving for camp, and Charles Kirkwood, clerk of board 3, pointed out that it will be impossible now to do that. He added that the four men in the A-1 classification from whom the three will be selected probably will not be given their physical examinations until next Monday because physicians are not available. The No. 3 board serves

HOUSE, SENATE SHIFT SESSIONS

Move Sessions To Escape Possible Roof Collapse.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The senate and house agreed today to transfer their sessions for the remainder of the year to the old supreme court chamber of the capitol and the new house office building caucus room, respectively, to permit repairs to the roofs over the two regular chambers.

The two actions were taken after Democratic leaders in both chambers had warned their colleagues that the roofs were in danger of collapsing. Both moves will be made Monday.

Drivers Confused But Congestion's Relieved

Pennies and Nickels Start Dropping In Parking Meters; Motorists Find There's Plenty of Room to Park.

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

Parking meters got their first official workout in Mansfield today and varied were the opinions regarding their usefulness.

Police placed their stamp of approval on the new machines which dot the curbs throughout the business district. They claimed the gadgets reduced double parking and made ample parking space available. All-day parkers were forced off the restricted streets.

But many motorists didn't like their first experience with the machines. Some found the meters baffling and parked out of the restricted district while others steered into all-day parking lots.

Dozens of other motorists who didn't understand operation of the manually controlled devices, attempted to park in the customary manner and were greeted with little yellow tags on their cars when they returned to their machines.

Officers said some of the tickets were for staying overtime. Others were handed out because the driver failed to stay within the white boundaries of each parking space.

But it is ignorance of how the meters operate that caused most

FIFTH COLUMN

Buenos Aires Alarmed By Nazi, Fascist Organizations.

BUENOS AIRES —(AP)— The newspaper Critica denounced alleged Nazi and Fascist fifth column activities in a full page article yesterday, charging that Buenos Aires Nazis now are in a position to attempt a putsch "with alarmingly good chance."

The newspaper asserted the Nazis had divided the city into four zones, each with 300 to 500 adherents.

These groups meet two or three times a week, the Critica article continued, and receive military instructions with modern firearms.

Fascist leaders operating under instructions from Rome have organized "Mussolini bridages," the article said, which conduct military drills, wear special uniforms within their quarters and swear loyalty to Il Duce.

According to Crawford county Sheriff L. J. Jacobs, Johnson had apparently attempted to stop quickly on the loose gravel and lost control of his car. The body was found by Daniel Grogg, a hunter, and a number of companions.

NEW ORLEANS —(AP)— The dream of a quiet business session that had enveloped the American Federation of Labor convention had been broken by David Dubinsky, unperturbed today after three fist fights and bitter charges be made against gray-haired chieftains of the group.

Police-guarded and nursing a bruised lip, Dubinsky, president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers, announced he had demanded of an AFL vice-president:

"I was out. Why the —— did you want me back? You had peace before."

Dubinsky returned to the AFL fold only last June after deserting the Congress of Industrial Organizations which he helped found following his departure from the AFL.

Although their country already is occupied by German troops, Antonescu and Sturdza came to sign a treaty, like Hungary did Wednesday and Slovak and Bulgarian officials are expected to do next week, accepting the places assigned to their countries during the war and in the "new European order" to follow, if the Axis powers win.

Adolf Hitler receives Antonescu and Sturdza this afternoon, and will give them a dinner tomorrow before they go home.

AMERICAN AID REACHES PEAK

President Says All Possible Help Under Conditions Now Given Britain.

(By Associated Press)

HYDE PARK, N. Y.—President Roosevelt indicated at a press conference today that, under present conditions, American aid to Britain was near its peak.

He said that everything possible was being done at the present time.

Two weeks ago Mr. Roosevelt had laid down a rule of thumb under which he said Britain and the United States would share 50-50 in American production of planes, guns and other war equipment.

Asked today whether, in view of the recent acceleration of German bombings of English communities, that rule could be altered to give more help to the British, the president said the question was altogether too general.

If some one could point out specifically how it could be done, he said, it might be a different story. But suggestions on that point, he said must come from other people.

In reponse to another inquiry, he said it should not be taken for granted that consideration was being given to expanding American assistance to the British.

Mansfield Goes To Work After Quiet Holiday

Mansfielders went back to work today after observing a quiet Thanksgiving yesterday in weather that was more like spring than late November.

Mansfield families entertained guests at dinners or visited relatives in other communities. Schools, stores, and public offices were closed and there was little activity in the downtown area.

Despite the comparatively mild weather, traffic in the county area was light for a holiday and only one person was injured. Traffic fatalities in the nation were held to 60, below the average for a November Thursday, the National Safety Council estimated.

Seven Mansfield churches held special Thanksgiving services yesterday morning and hundreds of persons attended before going home to a big dinner.

While residents of 32 states settled down to normal again today after the observance, 16 states which refused to follow President Roosevelt's plan for an earlier Thanksgiving planned to celebrate next Thursday.

Thanksgiving will be celebrated officially next Thursday in all the New England states, and in Tennessee, Florida, North Carolina, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Iowa, South Dakota, Pennsylvania and Nevada.

Jubilant Kingdom Displays Flags, Cheers News of Latest Victory.

ATHENS—The capture of Koritza, key base in southern Albania from which Italian columns drove into Greece 25 days ago, was announced triumphantly today by the Greek government.

It came as the climax of bitter warfare in the rugged mountains of the Greek-Albanian frontier in which hard-fighting Greek troops first checked and then hurled back the tide of invasion.

"Our heroic troops after hard fighting entered Koritza today triumphantly," said a communique.

"The advance of our troops continues everywhere."

Jubilantly the government ordered flags displayed throughout the little kingdom, and dispatches from Salonika and elsewhere told of an excited populace eagerly discussing the latest victory.

Not only have its forces occupied Koritza, 10 miles inside Albania, but other Greek forces are pursuing an Italian army retreating pell mell farther south, near the center of the 100-mile front, Greek announcements said.

As a result of this break in the Italian line, the Greeks were said to be threatening Argirocastro, a second advanced base only 30 miles from Porto Edda. Porto

Company Retains Employe, Aluminum Workers Strike

DISPUTE OVER JOB HOLDS UP DEFENSE WORK

Mill Hand Reported To Have Threatened Union Officer In Dues Argument.

(By Associated Press)

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa. — A strike of CIO unionists, protesting the company's refusal to discharge a mill worker who allegedly threatened a union official, shut down operations at the main plant of the Aluminum Company of America here today.

The corporation, the nation's sole producer of aluminum, furnishes metal used widely for airplanes. The plant, which employs 7,500, has been operating 24 hours a day on defense orders.

William Hanker, spokesman for local No. 2 of the aluminum workers' union, which called the strike, said both the union and the company "hated to see the defense program treated this way." The company said the strike was "not justified."

Among the defense contracts on which the plant was working was a $1,200,000 order for 25 000 sets of field kitchens for the U. S army.

Hanker, referring to the reason for the walkout, said the company refused to discharge a millworker who brandished a knife and threatened Tom Davis, chairman of the local's sheet mill committee, when Davis mentioned that he pay up back dues The man also threatened the lives of Davis' wife and young daughter, Hanker said.

The CIO spokesman said more than 1,000 members of the union voted to strike early today after the company declined to dismiss the employe.

Through the night and morning company and union heads conferred in an attempt to reach an agreement.

The strike became effective when about half of the 7,500 men and women employes appeared at the plant on the 6 a. m. and 7 a. m. shifts.

Hanker said the millworker in the dues dispute had not paid his dollar-a-month fee for "more than a year."

The last aluminum strike occurred in 1934.

Honeymoon Island Trip Ends Fatally For Dayton Bride

TAMPA, Fla. —(AP)— Hope of a young Ohio couple for a honeymoon on semi-tropic "honeymoon island" was dashed tragically early today when the 16-year-old bride of a week was killed in an automobile accident.

County Traffic Officer Jack Combie said the girl was the former Elaine Anderson of Dayton, O., who had eloped a week ago with 19-year-old Gene Floyd of Dayton.

Combie said they planned to stay in one of the free cottages on the Gulf of Mexico island haven west of here sponsored by wealthy George Washburn while Floyd looked for a job.

The girl's skull was fractured when the old model car overturned on a curve. Floyd was uninjured, but appeared shocked.

They were within 25 miles of their destination.

START WORK ON $70,000 LINE

WPA Opens Construction of New Water Main Extension Monday Morning.

Work on another link in the improvement of the municipal water distribution system will be started Monday, completing the construction of a high capacity main, part of which was installed two years ago.

Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton said the construction includes a $70,000 line to extend to the mercantile district a 16-inch main put down on Cook road and Lexington avenue two years ago.

Crafton said he was notified by WPA that 45 men would be put on the job Monday morning, the force later being boosted to 100 workers.

Construction will start at West Dickson and North Weldon avenues, and proceed east on Dickson to Main and South of Weldon to Crouse, then over Glessner and South on Mulberry to Mendota to Lexington where connection will be made to the present high-speed main.

City Engineer W. C. Statler said the entire project is expected to be completed in three months.

Cost is financed jointly by WPA and the city. The city's share has been estimated at $29,000 for the purchase of the pipe with the government agency meeting the balance for labor.

Recommended several years ago by Cleveland consulting engineers, construction of the line has been approved by the state department of health and the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

SOLDIERS GIVEN CASTOR OIL AS CURE FOR FOOD POISONING

FORT THOMAS, Ky. —(U P)— A ration of bologna was under suspicion today as origin of an epidemic of mild food poisoning that struck approximately 150 soldiers at Fort Thomas.

None of the cases were serious, according to Major A. J. Redland, post surgeon. It was not believed that more than a few, if any, selective service recruits were stricken. About 200 recruits under the conscription program reported for duty at the post Wednesday.

All but 100 of the stricken men had recovered today.

Fried bologna, served the men at breakfast yesterday, apparently was responsible for the outbreak, an officer said.

"We are not quite sure but we think the men were made sick by some bologna served Wednesday night and again yesterday morning," Major Redland said.

None of the men became ill after the Wednesday's night meal.

Major J. E. Canary, post adjutant, said castor oil was the general prescription to cure the sickness.

Colonel Arthur Underwood, commanding officer, said "There is absolutely no cause for alarm among parents" of new recruits, most of them from southwestern Ohio.

He pointed out that food and water supplies underwent daily inspections at the fort where 1,500 persons are fed daily. He denied that bologna had been substituted on the menu because of a shortage of food caused by the influx of the selective service men.

PROPOSES BILL TO COORDINATE PREPAREDNESS

Says It's Not Clear Whom War Advisory Board Shall Advise.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — A war resources administration, empowered to coordinate industrial and procurement phases of the defense program under a single administrator, was proposed today by Senator Robert A Taft, (R., O.) in a bill introduced in the senate.

"We now have a national defense advisory commission made up of seven able men without a chairman," Senator Taft said. "This body, however, is purely advisory and it is not perfectly clear whom the members are supposed to advise."

Under the Taft bill the administrator would be authorized to:

1. Formulate the basic policies for the mobilization of the economic and industrial resources of the country to meet the requirements of a major war;

2. In cooperation with the secretaries of war and the navy, formulate plans for the acquisition, purchase and storage of all raw, semi-processed and finished materials and supplies necessary for the national defense and the creation of manufacturing capacity to turn out arms, ammunition, implements of war and other equipment and supplies at such rates as may be necessary in time of war,

3. Make plans for the reduction of the activities of non-essential industries in time of war and for their partial or total conversion to more useful purposes;

4. Coordinate the requirements submitted by the army and navy for munitions, equipment and supplies, with the essential needs of other government agencies and those of the civilian population;

5. Recommend legislation required to execute the plans;

6. Exercise all powers previously conferred on any government agency to purchase or store strategic or critical materials, to manufacture munitions, or to construct manufacturing plants.

The Voice of BROADWAY

—By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

THANKSGIVING ON BROADWAY.

This year, Broadway can be thankful for: The lights that burn brightly. . . . The $19 a bottle champagne on the night club menus. . . . Sunday night shows. . . . Bette Davis' exciting performance in "The Letter." . . . William Saroyan who gave Bught Street something to gab about at the midnight confabs, something to write about in the whimsical chapters of Our Town

Eddy Duchin playing "Night And Day" at the Waldorf. . . . The way Betty Grable looks in technicolor—or, for that matter, the way Betty Grable looks in the Stork Club . . . The wave of prosperity in the bistros ever since Labor Day.

Those Norma Bel Geddes chairs in the loungy Barberry Room. . . . Ed Wynn's funny face behind the footlights. . . . The home-town chatter caused by Ethel Merman's elopement with Bill Smith.

Jose Ferrer's hilarious portrayal of "Charley's Aunt" in the best comedy of this season which is also the best example of farce direction the theater has seen in many seasons.

The plastic surgeon who made Milton Berle so much prettier . . . The hi-jinks of Jinx Falkenberg . . Bob Hope's silly sallies on the radio dials.

The wonderful fact that you can see the wonderful DeMarcos dancing in two places. . . . That new print in the theater programs, which the gentleman next to you is able to read without setting fire to your tulle

Spaghetti with chicken livers at Sardi's, and the colorful personages who surround it at 6 p. m. . . . The new Cub Room—the Stork Club annex—which will have a powder-your-nose salon as big as Grand Central Station, as well as a private lying-down room for debutantes who took one too many Martinis.

Alfred Hitchcock's spine-icers. . . . Natine Gae and the Hightower Brothers in "Panama Hattie" . . . The fact that a few debutantes are beginning to use a little rouge and no longer look like powdered clay. . . . Vivien Leigh's marriage to Laurence Olivier—story-book stuff.

Those three wonderful novels —"Native Son," "King's Row," and "For Whom the Bell Tolls" . . . The "Fantastia" sign, which is better than the picture—and it rivals the Wrigley electric fish. . . . Broadway's bowling craze, which has decorated the Times Square Alleys with the sector's prettiest chorines, out to whittle their waistlines.

Helen Hayes' Sunday night air dramas . . . The way Carol Bruce sings "Louisiana Purchase" . . . The magnificent "Thief of Bagdad"—a celluloid fantasy which will thrill everyone who is lucky enough to see it.

Zorina's wicked white dress in "Louisiana Purchase. (Is it really what it seems to be, or isn't it?) . . . Preston Sturges' movie-making which forces Broadway cynics to talk much faster to prove that Hollywood isn't The Drama. . . . Central Park at night when there's half a moon.

Ben Hecht's dialogue. . . . The stirring gypsy dances of Los Chavallilos Sevillanos at the Sert Room. . . . A walk along Fifth Avenue during the Christmas shopping season. . . . El Morocco return to the zebra stripe magic.

The renaissance of the musical comedy, led by Buddy de Sylva, the triple-threat kid . . . Connie Boswell's liquid chants on your phonograph. . . . The longevity of "Life with Father" and "The Man Who Came to Dinner," which are still much better than anything the current season has offered

Tommy Dorsey's discovery of "I'll Never Smile Again" . . . The return of such dependables as Al Jolson, Grace George and William Shakespeare to bolster the show lists

Those romantic hansom cabs that sometimes trot the unaccustomed route down Broadway. . . . The pretty girls in every musical in town.

The view from the Rainbow Room corner tables. . . . The smiling cops on 53rd Street at 3 a. m. . . . Hildegarde singing "The Last Time I Saw Paris" . . . The blue Hudson. . . . Those soft seats in the loges at the Capitol.

Patient taxi drivers standing on their running boards during the 8:30 cross-town traffic jabs. . . . The dim Polynesian atmosphere of the Hurricane. . . . Cheesecake at Lindy's. . . . Donald Duck. . . . Robert Benchley. . . . Balanchine's ballets. . . . The temporary minor excitement of movie stars entering the niteries.

Paul Gallico's adventure stories in Cosmopolitan. . . . Betty Hutton's vitamin-stuffed behavior in La Martinique's floor show. . . . The park in the Plaza. . . . Jerome Kern's melodies, and the way Sonny Kendis plays them at 3 East 53. . . . The return of Stage Magazine

Jane Froman's chanting at the Versailles, which has started a revival of George Gershwiniana. . . . Manhattan's long season of ballet. . . . Raoul Pene DuBois' brilliantly exciting costuming of "Panama Hattie."

The pending theatrical debut of Maxie Baer, the Gertie Lawrence of the prize ring . . . The new Dave's Blue Room . . . The lines outside the theater box offices . . . Those young Revuers, who make the Music Hall stage shows so much easier to sit through . Casper Reardon's harp.

The return of the open fireplace vogue in night clubs. . . . The voodoo conga music at the Club Cuba . . . Shubert Alley feuds to liven the news pages. . . . The good natured crowds ambling past the Astor. . . . being in Manhattan.

Just pottings about people you know, as they're seen here and there about town.

Capt. T. M Bell blushing as he admits to a young lady that he is the oldest police officer in the state from the point of active service, with 31 years on the Mansfield police force. . . . Ralph Hughes debating a question of ethics in bridge with his wife during a benefit card party.

Dale Beer nursing a big bump on his head and cuts on his hand after a ceiling lamp broke loose and fell on his head while he was at work . . . County employes marveling at the sturdy construction of the courthouse as workers dig through its floors and walls to install the elevator

Ralph Shelton (Art Reiland) telling friends of his old days as newspaperman on the west coast . . . Mrs. George Draffan having lunch with other Red Cross workers.

Attys. Frances O'Brien and James Hoffman discussing the Junior Association of Commerce Golden Gloves boxing tournament scheduled for early in January. . . . Ann Hager, who started bowling this fall, hoping she can hit a 200 game before the season is over.

Scores along the main stem as parking meters get their initiation this morning. Patrolman Howard Schuck placing the first tag on a car illegally parked on North Main street. . . . Patrolman Floyd C Boals ordering a truck driver to the curb on North Walnut street . . . Connie Kalbfleisch parking in front of the building in which his office is located . . . Three meters in front of the Third street market with 30 minutes parking time on each and no cars in the spaces along the curb Gratton Johnson pulling into a space in front of the Madison theater and jumping out and forgetting to deposit a coin . . . Parking lot operators reporting a brisk early morning business. . . . A Park Avenue West merchant docking his head out of the door of his establishment and eyeing the empty parking spaces along the curb.

SPORTS PARADE

By HENRY McLEMORE

DES MOINES, Iowa — (AP) — Have you ever jumped right out of your skin? I mean have you ever jumped completely out of it so that it stood right there beside you looking like a Dr. Denton's sleeping garment?

I did yesterday, in the middle of a newspaper sports department. It wasn't a pretty sight, because after all beauty is only skin deep.

The reason for all this was the sudden and unexpected arrival of Bob Feller not a Bob Feller but THE Bob Feller of whom the nicest thing I said all last baseball season was that he was a crybaby, a sissy, and a whiner. I'm so broad-minded that I am capable of overlooking the fact that he only won 27 games and is perhaps the finest pitcher in baseball.

Well, anyway, there he stood right back of me, fresh from a quail hunting trip and with a shotgun in his hands. I had several nasty thoughts, one being that maybe Feller wasn't as broadminded as I was and wouldn't overlook the things I had written about him and Trosky and Harder and Chapman and the other Cleveland Indians.

I didn't dare turn around for a moment. Under my breath I whispered "count ten, Bob, count ten." I hoped he remembered his American history, particularly that part about "don't shoot until you see the whites of their eyes." I kept mine closed on purpose.

As I turned back, and as my skin turned with me, I realized for the first time what a fool I had been to ever say an unkind word about this great, big, formidable, 190-pound, shotgun equipped nice person—Bob Feller. It was so obvious to me, as I looked into the sights of that shotgun, that Bob Feller was one of the kindest, sweetest, understanding, clean cut, and all-round fine man I had ever known.

He spoke the first word I was past speech.

"Nice to see you, Henry. What you doing out here?"

I was dying a few minutes ago, Bob, but I'm feeling a lot better now. How'ya Bob, ol-boy, ol-boy?"

Believe it or not, we got to chattering. He understood all about the riding the Indians took last year. Said he thought it was a perfect set-up for a sportswriter and that any sportswriter who didn't write about it would have been crazy.

He did say, however, that there were two sides to the trouble the Indians had with Vitt. He wouldn't explain, though.

"That's all over," Bob said. "We all know Peckinpaugh and we all like him. He is a man who agrees with us that we have the best club in the American league and can win the pennant. That sort of spirit will help us next season."

I enjoyed every moment of our talk, but I kept wanting to call him governor and thank him for the reprieve.

ACCIDENTAL DEATHS

MONTGOMERY, Ala. —(U P)— Accidents take more Alabama lives than any single disease except heart disease, Bright's disease, cerebral hemorrhage and pneumonia, a state health department survey has disclosed. In 1939, 1,831 Alabamians died of accidental deaths.

Lou Brouillard Now a Wrestler

Famous Southpaw Makes Debut Recently.

WORCESTER, Mass. — (INS) — Worcester's most famous southpaw, Lou Brouillard, who held two world's boxing championships, recently made a successful wrestling debut before a home-town audience in Mechanics Hall, defeating Gus Johnson, Minneapolis, Minn., in five minutes, 51 seconds.

Somewhat heavier than before he hung up his boxing gloves, Brouillard weighed 177 pounds for his match with Johnson, who held a 20 pound advantage.

Though his opponent twice appeared about to use his fists on Lou, neither contestant fell back on their punching abilities during the bout.

Lou twice was on the bottom and receiving punishment during the brief bout, but managed to squirm loose and win.

* * *

He showed a good knowledge of wrestling holds, scoring the sole fall of the bout with a cradle hold.

Kilbane to Fight Again

Former Boxing Champ Will Battle With Words.

By LARRY HAUCK

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Johnny Kilbane, world featherweight champion two decades ago, is going to fight again—with words.

The silver-haired Irishman, still trim as a college halfback, will start his "comeback" in January when he enters the Ohio legislature as a state senator.

"Before, I was fighting for myself—to eat, to get some place in the world," the Clevelander said today. "This time I'm going to battle for the people—especially the underprivileged and the youngsters.

"Some people think it's funny a prize fighter should become a senator. Why? I came up from the bottom. I know our problems and I am going to keep swinging until I help those who need help."

Kilbane won his boxing title in 1912 from Abe Attell and lost it to Eugene Criqui in 1923. He has spent most of the ensuing years in physical education work.

Now 51, Kilbane was elected on the Democratic ticket, but "I have just as many friends who are Republicans, he observed. "I think they'll help me with my welfare program too after I sell them on the idea.

"I didn't have much of a chance when I was a kid and the boys today deserve a better break. We need a broad physical education training program in schools. State institutions are overcrowded. . . . And the old people deserve comfortable pensions too."

Kilbane said he was sure the legislature could find some place to reduce current expenditures and provide funds to carry out his ideas.

* * *

"But there will be no new taxes," he promised. "I'm one of the people and I know how much we pay now."

Dancing Steps Are Aid to Basketeers

DES MOINES—(NS)—Bill Williams, Drake University's veteran basketball coach, has been doubling in the role of dancing master during the weeks preceding the start of the 1940-41 season.

Each day's practice of the Bulldog basketeers starts with a full hour of sliding, gliding and pivoting.

Williams said he got the idea from Sam Barry, basketball coach at the University of California, who has been using dancing steps for the past three seasons to develop grace, good timing and a flowing, liquid speed, helpful in winning games.

HE DESERVES THE REST.

LANSFORD, Pa. —(UP)— William Gibson, 85, who went to work in the mines when he was seven and has worked in the anthracite fields ever since, has decided to retire. He is the oldest employe of the old mining company in the anthracite fields of Pennsylvania. Past efforts to get Gibson to retire on pension, the company said, had failed.

Rams Tackle Chicago Club

Cleveland Pro Gridders Out To Gain Revenge.

CLEVELAND—As the 1940 National League football season draws to a close, the Cleveland Rams are looking forward to spoiling the championship hopes of the two top teams in the Western Division, Chicago Bears and Green Bay Bay Packers.

The Rams tangle with the mighty Bears in Chicago this Sunday and close their season against the colorful Packers in Cleveland, Dec. 1.

Green Bay can move into a first place tie with the Bears if they beat Detroit and the Rams win over the over the Bears this Sunday, but the Packers must defeat Cleveland while the Bears defeat the Chicago Cards one week from Sunday to remain in that first place tie.

The Rams have no love for Curly Lambeau's Packers, and they would enjoy nothing more than putting Green Bay in first place this week and knocking them out of the championship the next. Although the Cleveland pros lost to both the Bears and Packers early in the season, the defeat up at Green Bay was the more bitter.

With the 1939 World's Champions pulling tricks out of the bag all afternoon, the Packers dumped the Rams by a 31 to 14 count, scoring their last touchdown in the last two minutes of play and showing that they wanted to give the Rams everything they had.

The Cleveland players haven't forgotten the rough treatment they received at the Packer's hands, and they seek vengeance with all the power and cunning a professional team can muster.

The Rams have no particular grievance against the Bears other than a hard fought 21 to 14 defeat in Cleveland last month, and they will be out to win to even the count.

STOCK MARKET BUYERS GAIN NEW COURAGE

Leading Issues Are Lifted Up Fractions To More Than Point.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Buyers regained some of their courage in today's stock market and leading issues were lifted fractions to more than a point.

The list, moderately irregular at the start in fairly active dealings, displayed general improvement near the second hour. Industrials were principally favored.

Early rising tendencies were shown by U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Yellow Truck, Douglas Aircraft, Boeing Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Anaconda, Du Pont, American Telephone, Santa Fe, International Paper common and preferred, Certain-Teed preferred and Martin Parry.

Cheering marketwise was the survey of Dun & Bradstreet disclosing retail spending throughout the country this week continued at a high level. Compared with a year ago the volume was placed at 7 to 10 per cent larger.

Followers of the carriers noted forecasts that the upturn in railway equipment purchases now under way probably would reach full momentum in 1941 and give manufacturers of transportation materials their best year since 1929.

Board No. 2, serving wards 5 and 6 in Mansfield and Madison township, had chosen two of its three men today, and the third was to be given his physical examination this afternoon.

Certified by the board were Fred L. Martin, 573 Wayne street, and James G. Kondos, 154 Seventh avenue. George Lump and Joseph F. Mitsch, both of Mansfield, were next in line among the volunteers. Lump will complete the board's allotment of three men if he passes the physical examination.

The first group of men from the county will leave Mansfield by bus Tuesday morning after meeting at the Memorial building at 8:15 a. m. They will go to Ft. Hayes, Columbus, for their equipment and then will be sent to camp for a year.

The county's three draft boards are sending out questionnaires at the rate of 50 a day. Nearly 600 registrants will have received their blanks by Saturday. Board No. 2 will have 275 questionnaires out by tonight, more than either of the other boards.

DIES REPORTS ITALY, JAPAN EXPOSED NEXT

More White Papers Planned After One Attacking Nazi Activity.

are Gestapo (German secret police) agents in the United States," Dies said. "As fast as possible we will move in upon them, place them under oath, and take their testimony.

"But we are not going to move against Innocents," he repeated.

Robert Stripling, committee clerk, announced that committee agents within the next few days would seize records of suspected subversive foreign agents in Boston, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Buffalo, Pittsburgh, Milwaukee, Cleveland, New Orleans and St. Louis.

The bulky document on Nazi activities issued yesterday contained dozens of exhibits which the committee said were copies of records seized in various cities. Some were of letters, some of informal notes and some of unidentified statements, all represented as relating to phases of German efforts to establish contacts here with industrialists.

The overall picture the committee said it found "apparent" was one principally of German propaganda, with a liberal sprinkling of "so-called military espionage," and economic penetration in the western hemisphere.

The committee held, for instance, that evidence showed that the Transocean News Service was a propaganda outlet and that it worked closely with German diplomatic officials in the United States. Transocean is a German enterprise and has no connection with any American news gathering agency or organization.

Say Paper Rates 3 Short Laughs

BERLIN—(AP)—The Dies committee report is worth "exactly three short laughs," said authorized sources today, commenting on a "white paper" issued by the committee, a group of the U. S. house of representatives.

(The white paper charged the Nazis with a scheme of propaganda, espionage and planning in the United States.)

The German sources said:

"Jokes may be divided into two categories, good and bad," one commentator said. "If the joke is a poor one . . . It is customary to react to it with three short laughs. That's what we do to the Dies committee report."

Beyond that spoofing remark, these sources declined to any official or semi-official comment.

MURRAY NAMED CIO PRESIDENT

Successor To John L. Lewis Calls For Labor Unity on Taking Office.

organize, Lewis declared the CIO had built up "a proud record of accomplishment."

"It has demonstrated to the American people," Lewis said, "that it can advance the well being of its members and yet protect the privileges and the rights of every other American."

The choice of pro- and anti-Lewis groups, Murray in his acceptance told the convention he stood before it "humble in the sight of God."

"I have no illusion about the mighty honor this convention has thrust upon me," he said. "I have no illusions about the weighty responsibilities entailed in becoming president of the great organization."

Murray and Lewis had worked together 30 years, both as leaders of the United Mine Workers of Americia and as CIO executives. Lewis recently said he had an "affection bordering on actual love" for the man he chose to succeed him when Wendell Willkie, supported by Lewis, lost the presidential election.

Referring to "confusions and misunderstandings" in the CIO, Murray pleaded for united support of his leadership.

HUSBAND LOST, AND SURPRISED

He Thought It Was His Family That Was Missing.

LOS ANGELES —(AP)— H. Lee Jones of Santa Fe, N. M., and police agreed in principle, but were apart on details.

Jones reported his wife and two children, who had preceded him from Santa Fe, lost after he was unable to find the home of the friend wherein they were to meet. Mrs. Jones had the address with her.

Unable to be of any immediate assistance, the officer filled out a lost person report—for Jones.

PROMOTED

DUBINSKY ENDS PEACE FOR AFL

Charges Executive Council Raises War Chest To Combat Foe.

crackers under the rocking chair, leaders had predicted a quiet two-week meeting reflecting the Pacific nature of the AFL as publicly contrasted by President William Green with the turbulent CIO convention in Atlantic City.

Dubinsky charged the executive council, the guiding body of the AFL, had repudiated charges made to him as part of the conditions under which he returned to the organization.

He charged the AFL, while talking of making peace with the CIO, was actually creating a "war chest."

He said that because of a measure he introduced at the convention here to outlaw racketeering from unions he was attacked by Joseph Fay, vice-president of the Operating Engineers union and a "red-headed" man.

Fay, who admitted a "brawl" with the five-foot, four-inch Dubinsky, said the "argument" started when he blamed the Garment Workers' leader for helping organize the CIO.

Green Hopes for Peace With CIO

NEW ORLEANS—(AP)—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor in convention here, said he "hoped" the selection of Philip Murray as president of the CIO today at Atlantic City would aid the cause of peace between the AFL and CIO.

Asked if Murray as successor to the retired John L. Lewis would aid in closing the breach between the two organizations, Green dropped his eyes, took a deep breath and replied:

"Well, all I can say is that I hope so."

This Is the Life!

The Army Looks to Its Kitchens To Put Ruggedness In Its Ranks

(This is the fourth of six articles describing the army camp life draftees will lead.)

By MORGAN M. BEATTY
(AP Feature Service Writer)

WASHINGTON — The cooks have already qualified for most of the medals in the draft army.

The army asks only to be judged on results, not special meals or recipes. If you're a whiz at pumpkin pie, Mother, they won't even try to compete. They say theirs is good. That's all. But they'll stack their day-in-day-out menus against you.

In the end the army thinks it'll produce healthier men. For army men suspect mothers encourage their boys in indigestible directions and unbalanced diets. (They can't prove it, though.)

In the draft army it'll be breakfast, dinner and supper, with the accent on dinner in the middle of the day. Choice of coffee, tea, or milk every meal. Cafeteria style, mostly.

On four days a year, the army really stuffs, Christmas, Thanksgiving, New Year's, and Organization day. That last is the anniversary of the date a particular regiment was organized. On those days there'll be two kinds of meat, four vegetables, two kinds of desserts, candy, fruit, nuts, and all the trimmings, except hard liquor.

The army asks that its meals be judged on results. Gone is the kitchen police duty of World war days. The army hires outsiders for the traditional K. P. work.

Here's a sample menu for the ordinary day:

Breakfast—Fruit, toast, cereal, bacon and eggs, coffee, tea or milk.

Dinner — Soup, meat, mashed potatoes and gravy, string beans, peas, pie, coffee, tea or milk.

Supper—Salad, cold meat cuts, stewed prunes, cookies, coffee, tea or milk.

FASCISTS PUT TO ROUT AFTER BREAK IN LINE

Greek Forces Press Forward To Threaten Second Base of Duce's Army.

Edda is one of the bases used by the Italians to supply their Albanian army from the sea.

Koritza and Argirocastro were the two springboards whence Italians launched their invasion of Greek territory before dawn on Oct. 28 after an ultimatum that was served on the Greek government at 3 a. m.

News of the Greek victory reached the army general staff here at noon, and a short time later it was spread to the public by the newspapers.

Crowds marched through the city's streets, cheering. Premier John Metaxas was given a great ovation when he paused on the steps of army headquarters and announced the news to hundreds gathered before the building.

There were no details of the fate of the Italian forces which defended Koritza, but it was reported that a large number were captured.

(Yugoslav border reports said the Greeks met no resistance in the city, the Italians having retired to the west overnight.)

A government spokesman said that before the day is over there may not be "a single Italian left in Greek territory."

So swiftly and so deeply were the Greeks said to have followed the receding wave of Italian invasion that their trucks could not keep up in the Albanian mountain wilderness and Greek and British planes dropped food to the Greek vanguards.

The Greeks said their forces were forging ahead against weak opposition toward Argirocastro.

Aerial observers reported the Italians were abandoning Koritza along roads covered by Greek mountain guns and other reports said Italian resistance before Argirocastro was so shattered the advancing Greeks virtually were unopposed. The collapse was attributed to several demoralizing breaks through the Fascist southern front.

At both these menaced centers the Italians had amassed huge stores of supplies for their armies.

A government spokesman emphasized that the Greek offensive was no pell-mell chase but a methodical advance. He said it was being pressed cautiously on a predetermined plan and that the Greeks were wary not to let themselves be drawn out too far.

Italians Report City Evacuation

BULLETIN

ROME — (AP) — The Italian high command hastened reinforcements to the Albanian front today for an attempt to regain Koritza after abandoning it to the advancing Greek army.

ROME —(AP)— Italy acknowledged today the loss of Koritza base in southern Albania from which the Italian army launched its invasion of Greece 25 days ago.

Eleven days of bitter fighting in which Italian losses were "considerable" and those of the Greeks perhaps even heavier preceded the abandonment of the city, 10 miles inside Albania, the high command announced. Its communique gave this account:

"Our protective troops formed by two divisions which took up defensive positions on the Greek-Albanian frontier at Koritza at the beginning of the war have withdrawn after 11 days of fighting to a line west of the city, which has been evacuated.

"During this period bitter fighting took place. Our losses were considerable. Those of the enemy were equally so, perhaps heavier.

"Our reinforcements are continuing on a vast line.

"Despite unfavorable weather conditions our air force has cooperated with the troops, bombarding some military objectives.

METER PARKING STARTS IN CITY

Drivers Confused But They Find There's Plenty of Room To Park Now.

of the difficulty, police said, but this will gradually be eliminated after motorists become accustomed to the new procedure.

Patient officers who patrolled the downtown district explained the operation over and over to motorists today.

Some had the idea that if 15 or 20 minutes remained on a meter they could get that amount of time in addition to the regular hour after dropping in a nickel. There can be no parking period longer than one hour.

Others dropped in two or three pennies at one time and then turned the crank to learn that they were alloted only 12 minutes.

This caused some people to get tickets, police reported, explaining that the crank on the face of the meter must be turned after each coin is deposited and that no matter how much time remains on a meter a nickel clears the machine and gives the motorist only an hour's parking.

They urged motorists to take time in depositing their coins, pausing a moment after the penny or nickel is dropped in the slot before turning the crank.

Scores of motorists who maneuvered their cars into parking spaces failed to keep them within the white boundaries marked off on the street and were the source of constant worry to police.

While officers were engaged in "educational work" today, Police Chief Meade K. Bates warned that parking over the white lines would be regarded as a violation and would not be tolerated. Patrolmen had instructions to tag cars not parked within the boundaries.

Numerous motorists pulled into parking spaces only to discover they had no pennies or nickles for the meter.

It was a common sight along the streets to see a motorist scurry into a nearby shop to get change before a yellow tag appeared on their cars.

Officers said there was less confusion than they expected and maintained that the new meters will reduce the double parking.

They said the biggest difficulty was educating truck drivers to pull over to the curb where there was vacant parking space. They said trucks making deliveries would be subject to violation if the drivers double parked while empty space appeared along the curb.

Representatives of the Michaels Art Bronze company today were completing the installation, placing [illegible] on the north side of West Third street between Main and North Walnut [illegible] said that 413 of the meters would be in operation [illegible]

Reporting the capture of Koritza, Italian base city in Albania, Greeks here said their troops marched into the fallen city with a band playing.

Weather Gives Britons Rest

BULLETIN

LONDON —(INS)— R. A. F. planes striking across the North sea today bombed the German airport at Stavanger, Norway —important jumping off place for Nazi attacks on Britain— the air ministry announced.

LONDON —(U.P.)— Bad weather gave the British Isles a respite from German air attacks last night. At one time, shortly after midnight, there were no raiders over the country anywhere.

Early last night a few bombers made their way across the channel from France, where the weather was equally bad, but they soon returned to their bases. A few reached the London area, where guns boomed fitfully, but no bombers were reported.

A few high explosive and incendiary bombs were dropped in scattered areas but there were no reports of major damage. Two short alarms were sounded at Liverpool and there were two alarms in the Midlands and in a southeast town.

(In Berlin, well informed quarters said that attacks yesterday were directed against London, and industrial and arms centers in the Midlands. It was said that bombs of "all calibers" were dropped on London, Birmingham, Coventry, Bristol and Southampton. The Germans said they lost two planes.)

Von Papen Carries Demand to Turkey

ISTANBUL —(AP)— Franz von Papen, German ambassador to Turkey, arrived here by plane this afternoon and was believed by observers to be bringing to the Turkish government a German demand for Turkish participation in the Axis' "new order" for Europe.

Returning from conferences in Germany and Bulgaria, Von Papen was expected to proceed by train to Ankara, the Turkish capital, tonight for other important meetings.

Observers believed the proposals he carried from Berlin might involve a request for a Turkish pledge not to act if Bulgarian and German troops move to attack Greece for the relief of Italy.

RUMANIA JOINS AXIS ALLIANCE FOR NEW ORDER

Antonescu Prepares To Sign Agreement on Visit To Nazi Capital.

the Rumanians would sign some kind of a treaty, but whether they would be taken into the Axis as "partners," or merely assigned a minor role, was not disclosed. Hungary signed a protocol to the German-Italian-Japanese alliance and authorized sources here said it bound Hungary to enter the war if some outside power, "for example the United States," attacked Germany. In such case, Nazi informants said, Hungary automatically would go to war against Britain.

It was said that Msgr. Josef Tiso, president of Slovakia, and Dr. Adalbert Tuka, his premier, were coming Sunday, and that a Bulgarian delegation would come early next week.

Reports that Jugoslavia was sending its foreign minister, A. Cincar-Markovitch, to sign a treaty, were denied in both German and Jugoslav circles here.

Nazis predicted that Bulgaria would adhere fully to the new line-up, since Bulgaria was Germany's World war ally and lost territory to the Allies, mainly its outlet to the Aegean, now belonging to Greece. Bulgaria's adherence to an Axis pact would throw open the entire southeastern gateway to Germany, as far as Turkey, leaving only Jugoslavia and warring Greece outside the alliance.

(At Istanbul, the Turkish press and radio warned Bulgaria to stay out of the Italian-Greek war and said that any Bulgarian aggression, "either with or without outside help," would bring on "a new war.")

Debate Club at St. Peter's School

Debating has always been popular at St. Peter's parochial school and this year there are four teams in the Debating club. The year's work opened last week when two teams staged a verbal battle over the question: "Resolevd: That the power of the federal government should be increased." The next debate, staged within the next few weeks at the school will take this point: "Resolved: That the several states should adopt a universal system of legislature." The boys who make up the club are shown above. Seated, left to right, are: George Stuhldreher, Philip Diebler, Ralph Berger, Elmer Berger, Joseph Massa, Fred Forwith, Sidney Foltz (just back of Forwith) and William Butterfield. ONE KILLED IN AREA ACCIDENTS

Bucyrus Man Dies as Auto Crashes Into Tree; 12 Fatally Hurt In State.

The injured was Sam Kolb, 74, of 442 Newman street, who received a head cut in an accident a mile northeast of Mansfield on Route 42. Kolb was treated at his home.

Highway patrolmen said the accident happened when William Isaman, of 442 Newman street, with whom Kolb was riding, made a left turn in front of a hearse driven by Forrest E. Zeis, 25, of Lakewood. Damage to the two vehicles was slight, patrolmen said.

The Bucyrus accident victim was born in Nevada June 18, 1895. He had been employed for a number of years as a bookkeeper at the Halliwill Implement company and lived alone over a store on North Sandusky street.

He is survived by his father, James Johnson of California; four brothers, Archie of Atlanta, Ga., and Harold, James, Fred, and Carl, whose addresses are unknown; two sisters, Helen of California, and Edith, address unknown.

The body was taken to the Wise funeral home yesterday and was removed to Nevada today, where services will be held.

One accident alone, a head-on auto-truck crash east of Cambridge, snuffed out the lives of four Guernsey county young people who were crushed as the small car in which they were riding telescoped under the impact. They are Mary Snudak, 20, of Buffalo village; Leona Smith, 17, of Cambridge, Ansel Ray Conrad, 25, of Buffalo village, and Lawrence Lafollette, 24, of Derwent, the driver. The driver of the truck was held pending investigation.

At Upper Sandusky, a father of six children, 73-year-old Albert Feichter, was killed when he stepped into the path of a freight train.

When a pheasant flew up and frightened his horses, Albert Phipps, 64-year-old farmer of near Marysville was crushed to death beneath the wheels of his farm wagon.

Albert E. Gast, 67, was killed when struck by an auto as he attempted to cross a Columbus street.

Frank Nance, 59, was killed by a hit-skip car at Dayton.

When he was thrown beneath the wheels of a heavy trailer as the truck on which he was riding struck a curb at Akron, C. S. Crochter, 34, of Bellevue, was killed instantly.

The body of a colored man about 25 years old, killed by a Big Four train in Cincinnati, was tentatively identified as that of James Saturdio.

Lorenzo Smith, 52, of Cincinnati was killed in an auto-truck crash at Batesville, Ind.

Clifford H. McPhee, 36, Canton automobile salesman, was fatally injured when the car in which he was riding skidded and struck a utility pole.

CHAPTER III

Helen Jamison studied her fingernails, which were long and fantastically red. "I must be crazy," she thought," but there is something about this kid. . . . Or maybe it is this long ride through the sticks where I used to live. . . . When I first looked at her I could see the big-eyed little fool I was once. I walked out on the only man I ever loved just like she's doing. And the baby I might have had would have been just about her age. But -- so what? Is that any reason for getting soft-hearted and letting yourself in for a lot of grief? Because she hasn't a chance, and you know it."

She was silent for so long that Glory thought she was bored and said softly, "Well, I'll be going to bed now. Good night, Miss Jamison."

"Just a minute," Helen said brusquely. "I live at an apartment hotel not far from the boulevard. Not much of a place but it's reasonable and clean. Why don't you get a room there so that I can see you occasionally? Maybe I can give you a tip now and then."

The gratitude in the girl's face made Helen ashamed

"Oh, Miss Jamison, that's perfectly wonderful of you!"

"Not a doubt in her mind," Helen thought with a sigh, "as to whether she can trust me or not. I'll probably kick myself all over the lot for this. But I can't see that kid turned loose by herself. And after all, if she has plenty of money it won't cost me anything."

She would have been horrified if she had known what Glory considered sufficient to live on for several months. She would have been amazed if she had dreamed of the startling events which would result from her kind-hearted impulse

But Glory, tucked snuggly into her own berth, was convinced that fate had taken her under a kindly wing. What a day this had been. In only a few hours she had changed the course of her entire life. She was on her way to Hollywood, and already she had made a friend. And in spite of all Helen Jamison had said about it, Glory knew that her own experience would be different. Come what might, the girl told herself, she was young and strong, and she could take it. Because in the end her adventure would bring her success and perhaps romance! Whatever fate threw in her path, she would accept it eagerly. She was going to live at last now—really live. Before her dream-filled eyes, the future opened like a bright new book, the pages yet uncut. The rain beat against the windows as the train sped on carrying Glory Stevens to meet her destiny.

The first week in Hollywood was a thrilling experience for Glory Stevens, who at Helen Jamison's suggestion had established herself in a one-room apartment furnished in typical Hollywood fashion even to the Venetian blinds. There was a miniature kitchen where the girl prepared her own orange juice and coffee. Her other meals were eaten at inexpensive restaurants or drug stores.

Helen had been wonderful. She had shown Glory how to make every penny count. Horrified to discover that Glory's idea of plenty of money was three hundred dollars, the older woman reproached herself for having undertaken the task of looking out for her. But it was too late now.

The truth was that Helen had fallen under the spell of Glory's charm. She was such a gallant youngster. She never complained about anything or got in Helen's way. Unless her new-found friend suggested their sharing a meal, Glory trudged off to eat alone, and she had followed Helen's advice with a trusting eagerness that was pitiful. On all points but one. Whenever Helen mentioned her returning home, Glory shook her head. "I'm not going back until I'm famous and rich," she insisted.

Glory's father had written a letter which strengthened this determination. "Mike tells me you bought a one-way ticket which would leave you about three hundred dollars," he said stiffly. "When that is gone I'll arrange for your trip home." Not one word of reproach for cashing the check he had given her for a wedding present. Neither did he mention Arthur. This meant that he was even more hurt and angry than she had expected.

Now that it was behind her, Glory began to realize the enormity of her offense. To leave a man literally waiting at the church was unforgivable. People would talk about it for the rest of her life. She couldn't walk down Main street without hearing their curious, unkind remarks. She told herself that even if she wanted to go back, she couldn't now.

"I'd starve first," she said dramatically.

"That's because you've never been hungry," Helen warned her. "You'll feel differently about it after you've gone without a couple of meals."

"But Helen, if I only had a chance. If I can only get a break . . ."

"And how do you think you're going to get that break?" Helen inquired cynically.

"I don't know, unless you help me. Can't you think of anything? You know I'll do anything you say."

Helen groaned. There was something about this kid that certainly got under your skin. When she turned on that smile of hers it lighted up the whole room. Helen admitted, watching her, that she had a definite appeal. This girl was very sensitive to impressions; her emotions flashed like colored lights shifting across her lovely face. But so what? Beauty and personality could be found in every Hollywood block. Unless she had the right contacts, the most beautiful girl in the world wouldn't have a chance. And how well Helen Jamison knew it! To convince Glory of it, however, was another matter.

Day after day Glory dressed in her prettiest clothes to make the rounds of studios; she couldn't even secure an interview. But she insisted she was not discouraged. Someday some one would see her, she argued . . . If she could only meet a big producer or director . . . she felt certain they would immediately recognize her possibilities.

Meanwhile the money she had deposited in a bank was shrinking alarmingly. Helen suspected that she was eating only two meals a day. Finally she decided to take strong measures. That night she informed Glory that she had made an appointment for her with her own agent. She did not tell the excited, grateful girl what she had told Scottie Weston.

"Look, Scottie," she said to Weston, "do me a favor, will you? I've got a movie-struck kid on my hands who won't go home. She's been half starving herself to make her money hold out . . . . Never mind how I got that way . . . I thought if you'd see her and give her the lowdown maybe, she'd believe you. Thanks, pal! I'll do something for you sometime. And listen, Scottie, don't hesitate to give her the works, will you? I'll stand by to pick up the pieces."

But to Glory she said, "If you've a ghost of a chance, Scottie Weston will tell you. He's put across some of the biggest names on the screen."

"Wonderful!" Glory breathed. "But, Helen, why didn't you take me to him before?"

"It's not easy to get an appointment with Scottie," Helen said. "Even though he's my own agent. If all the people Scottie Weston doesn't see were put in a row the line would reach to Broadway and back."

"Oh!" Glory said, impressed.

She was beginning to realize, although she wouldn't have admitted it, that getting into the movies was not at all as she had pictured it. But now that she had an appointment with a real agent, no doubt he would see at a glance what marvelous material she would be.

Helen knew what was passing through her mind and was so sorry for her that she invited her to dinner, although Glory insisted on paying her share of the check. As they walked down the boulevard, Glory thought it the most magic street in all the world. Men in casual sport clothes. Girls in slacks and heavy make-up, with their hair hanging about their shoulders. Glory delighted in the easy air of informality yet she had been here long enough now to be conscious of the tension. The girl who waited on the tables, the clerk in the drug store, the handsome overalled boy in the service station all were waiting for the same thing. A BREAK!

Surely nowhere else in the world could there be so many pretty girls, so many good looking men. Everywhere one looked—beauty and brawn. Yet underneath it all that subtle undercurrent of excitement made up of hope and desperation. The atmosphere fairly reeked with overcharged emotions. But it was her city and she belonged to it. Someday they would recognize her as she drove down that boulevard in her cream-colored car. . .

"Better eat here tonight. It's cheap," Helen suggested. But where she ate, or what, made little difference to Glory because tomorrow she had an appointment with Scottie Weston . . .

The next morning at nine o'clock Glory was knocking on Helen's door.

"Now what?" grumbled Helen.

"I'm so excited I couldn't sleep," Glory apologized. "Let me in and I'll fix your breakfast."

* * *

She busied herself in the tiny kitchen while Helen went back to bed and smoked a cigaret. The sight of the girl, who might have been her own daughter, bringing the coffee and toast on a tray brought a lump in to the older woman's throat.

"Do you think I ought to wear my black dress?" Glory asked, seating herself at the foot of Helen's bed

"No. It's too sophisticated."

"But isn't that the way you want me to look?" Glory asked surprised.

"It is not. Wear the yellow sports outfit."

"That thing! I made it myself," Glory protested.

"Fine. I want you to look real. Scotie's fed up with girls who look glamorous . . . glamorous—boy, what did that word mean originally!

Glory poured herself another cup of coffee and asked eagerly, "Tell me about this Mr. Weston. What is he like?"

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1940

Have your nickel or pennies in readiness for the parking meter—it can't make change.

Discovering that the war isn't over, Mussolini may claim that Italy's "support" was secured by false pretenses.

There's no need for witch hunts or spy scares; but it's time for effective action to prevent sabotage in defense industries.

Congress Votes to Stay on Job

DEFEAT of the administration effort to force through an adjournment this week can scarcely be regarded as "an insult to President Roosevelt," which one supporter of the adjournment move termed it.

While the vote against adjournment was quite generally regarded as a test between the executive and legislative branches of government, it appears quite obvious that the present crisis in national affairs demands that congress stay on the job in Washington, so as to be in readiness for action in any emergency that may arise.

So many things remain undone by the present congress that there should be no difficulty in filling the next few weeks with constructive action, despite the fact that no definite program has been prepared by administration leaders.

Possibly the most convincing reason presented in favor of adjournment was that of David Lynn, Capitol architect, who contends there is danger of the roof falling in on both houses.

It appears that the roofs of house and senate chambers were built in 1854, with an old method of construction in which cast iron beams were suspended from outside girders with cast iron pins. Some of these pins are bent, Mr. Lynn says, the materials aren't strong enough for the load they carry, so he is definitely worried and believes temporary props should be put in place until the roof supports can be strengthened.

If such a peril exists no time should be lost in correcting it, as, seriously, congress cannot well be spared in times like these.

Vandalism Isn't 'Minor Offense'

SUCH vandalism as has been practiced in Mansfield in recent weeks, in damaging or destroying public property, should be treated as a more serious offense than it has thus far been considered by authorities.

Most recent exhibition of malicious property damage was the tearing out of two newly installed parking meters Wednesday night and unless this sort of thing is nipped in the bud by apprehension and severe punishment of the perpetrators there will likely be no end to such destructive acts.

Everybody has probably noticed that street letter boxes are peculiarly free from acts of vandalism—a condition that can be accounted for by the fact that these are recognized as government property and by knowledge that federal laws are more diligently enforced than state and municipal laws.

Disappointing as it may be, it must be accepted as true that certain types of persons are restrained from law violation only through fear of apprehension and punishment, and that public co-operation is required, in addition to efficient policing, to stop the acts of juvenile and adult vandalism to which Mansfield is being subjected.

Defense Requires Good Health

EMPHASIS on health and physical fitness has already become a part of the national defense program. A people that is rolling up its sleeves to do a difficult job at high speed needs heathy bodies and nerves as much as it needs machinery and fighting equipment.

Dr. Thomas Parran jr., surgeon general of the United States Public Health Service, says that 40 per cent of the American people are not getting food of the proper sort to maintain good health and vigor. In some cases this is the result of poverty. In many others it is ignorance not only of food values generally but of individual dietary needs and faulty assimilation. A lot of people who don't have as much energy as they should, or who have various apparently minor ailments, never consult a doctor and so fail to learn that malnutrition is at the root of their trouble.

The vitamin fad has been taken up so enthusiastically by the public that it has strengthened the practice of self-diagnosis and self-determination of remedies. But indiscriminate swallowing of vitamins in concentrated form may still leave the nutrition lack unfilled if the trouble is a matter of poor assimilation. It is as important to be serious and [illegible] about nutrition as about tuberculosis, diphtheria and other recognized health perils.

Listen World!

Go Ahead, Start!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

SOMETIMES you stop and survey your life with shocked surprise. This tame, colorless life isn't the sort you had planned—anything but! And your mind flashes back to the brave, bright dreams of your 'teens.

What splendid plans you had then. How full the years were to be with hot-blooded adventures, daring experiments, gallant crusades! And how you despised the cowards and sluggards who passed life up — sniveling, sentimental old women; pompous, peevish old men. You weren't going to let your life ravel out like that. Never!

But now—what has happened? What has become of those tall visions? Gone—all of them. And in their place? Dreary resignation, spineless submission. The same ignoble surrender you once despised in others! But why?

You think you know the answer. You've lost out, you believe because you "didn't have the right kind of home"—or "the proper education" or a "genial job"—or a "fair break." Or maybe you married the wrong person.

That's your story. But is it the real reason for your life's fade-out? No, it isn't. The real reason lies inside you. IN YOUR OWN FEAR OF LIFE.

THE AVERAGE PERSON SPENDS HALF HIS TIME YELLING FOR A CHANCE—AND THE OTHER HALF RUNNING AWAY FROM THE CHANCE WHEN IT COMES.

"But I'm not afraid to live," you protest. "I want to live in a big way. I want to go places, see things. I want to be important—different from other people. I want my life to mean something. Then how can you say that I'm running away from life?"

Because you are. We all are. We don't do it consciously. We don't deliberately turn down Big Opportunities or run away from Big Situations. But we so live our lives that the Big Opportunities never come . . . We never give them a chance to begin.

We're waiting all the time for Something Big to happen—our eyes strained toward far horizons. And in the meantime some little thing happens. Maybe it's just a new thought. The chance to make some trivial change—do something seemingly unimportant. And we turn away.

We turn away because it doesn't seem worth while. Or we're afraid it might not be a safe thing to do. We might lose money. Or be laughed at. Or most potent of all reasons it might interfere with our comfort, break up some cherished old habit. So we brush it aside. Refuse to think about it.

We don't dream that we are saying "No" to Life when we do so . . . but we are!

For Life doesn't come in Big Offerings — it comes in Small Chances. And if you pass up the small chances, the big ones can never arrive.

YOU'VE NEVER BECOME A "BIG SHOT" BCAUSE YOU WERE AFRAID TO BE A LITTLE ONE.

You never had a chance to go on big adventures because you wouldn't risk a small one . . . never led a great crusade because you ignored a trivial one.

LIFE HAS PASSED YOU BY. Why?

Because every day you pass life up.

But you'd still like to LIVE? Then nothing's holding you. Right at this moment there's a new thought you might think . . . a new habit you might make . . . a new person you might see . . . a new chance you might take which would revolutionize your whole life. If you "want to live" there's your break! GET GOING!

Health And Diet

More Questions Answered Here.

—By DR. CLENDENING

H. J. W.—"Would you advise a cold shot for a child three years old? The last two winters our boy has been very susceptible to colds. He has been getting all the cod liver oil that he should have, but it doesn't help him resist colds."

Answer—I do not believe that cold shots are certainly helpful in preventing colds for anybody, no matter what age. In a three-year-old it seems to me the chances are that the cause of recurrent colds is infected tonsils and adenoids.

A. V.—"Can you enlighten me on dementia praecox? Is there a cure for this mental disorder?"

Answer—Dementia praecox is a form of mental depression which occurs mostly in young people. It is not hereditary and does not run in families as many forms of mental disorder do. It seems to be a process of withdrawing into oneself and losing interest in the rest of the world. The causes are very complicated and can only be unraveled with a full analysis of the individual's life history. Many methods of treatment are tried. Often in the course of time the patients get better. The so-called shock therapy with metrazol, by producing profound disturbance amounting to a convulsion, has been successful in many cases when carried out by competent physicians.

S. S. Passaic, N. J.—"Is appendicitis hereditary? What are the symptoms. What diet should be given the convalescent who is overweight?"

Answer—No, appendicitis is not hereditary. Symptoms of appendicitis are fever, nausea, vomiting, pain in the abdomen which begins in the pit of the stomach, moves to the umbilicus, and settles usually in the lower right hand corner of the abdomen. However, the pain of appendicitis can be anywhere in the abdomen. Better not monkey with the diet of a convalescent from appendicitis for any reason.

E. S.—"Is it advisable for a person with ulcer of the stomach and colitis to take a teaspoonful of bicarbonate of soda three times a day?"

Answer—Yes, or even more. Bicarbonate of soda and other alkaline powders such as calcium carbonate or aluminum hydroxide neutralize the acid in the stomach which keeps the ulcer irritated.

Secret Service Agent Dies of Stab Wounds

MAN FOUND IN LOCKED ROOM, UNCONSCIOUS

Birmingham Police and FBI Join Investigation of Perry Slaying.

(By International News Service)

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — Robert F. Perry, veteran U. S. secret service agent who was mysteriously wounded in his apartment Wednesday night, died in a hospital today.

Perry, the oldest man in point of service in the organization and a personal friend of President Roosevelt, succumbed to head wounds which were inflicted by a mysterious assailant.

The agent, unconscious and bleeding profusely, was found by his wife who returned to the apartment after being absent for a short time. The apartment door was locked, and Mrs. Perry had to summon a neighbor to help her gain entrance.

Detective C. D. Propst, said the wounds in Perry's head apparently had been inflicted with a small pick or similar instrument. The weapon pierced the skull in two places, it was reported

Perry had been an agent in the secret service since the presidency of William H. Taft.

John C. Marsh, supervising agent from Atlanta, arrived in Birmingham shortly before Perry's death to take charge of the investigation, and it was reported that Col. E. W. Starling, chief of the White House secret service detail and Perry's closest personal friend, may come to Birmingham to assist in the case.

Both the federal bureau of investigation and the Birmingham detective force joined the secret service in an effort to track down the slayer.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) A loud explosion ripped out the revolving doors of a new midtown restaurant early today, shattered windows up and down Chestnut street, but left intact a huge plate-glass window fronting the establishment.

There were no injuries and little damage was done to the interior. The restaurant had closed for the night.

160 ENROLLED IN WPA CLASSES

25 More Students Can Obtain Admission In Educational Courses, Official Says.

Approximately 60 students are enrolled in the WPA commercial classes under the adult education program in Richland county and 100 in the WPA citizenship classes, Warren W. Loomis, who is in charge of the classes, said today.

With two instructors employed to teach commercial courses, Loomis said 20 or 25 more students can be handled in those classes.

Classes in typing, shorthand, are conducted each evening of the week from Monday through Friday at the West First Street school. Teachers are Ellen Robinson and Marguerite Swartz. Applications for enrollment are handled at the adult education offices in the basement of the school.

Citizenship classes are held the first four nights of the week in Mansfield and Crestline. In Mansfield they are conducted at the courthouse Bowman and Newman schools Instructors are Mrs. Christine McCreary, Ross Scarlotta, and Gladys Bauman.

Forty citizenship students were taken on a recent trip through the courthouse and City building where the operations of the county and city governments were described to them.

THANKSGIVING CHOICE OF MANSFIELD PAIR

Nuptial Ceremony Read for Miss Donna Weaver, Everett Them Early Yesterday Afternoon Before Church Altar.

PALMS banked the altar of the United Presbyterian church of East Mansfield yesterday when Rev. Smith Rose read the nuptial ceremony at 1:30 p. m. for Miss Donna Nell Weaver and Everett Warren Them. For her marriage Miss Weaver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Weaver, Bahl avenue, chose a powder blue wool dress trimmed with white angora and black accessories. She wore a corsage of roses.

She was attended by the bridegroom's sister, Miss Anna Marie Them, who was also attired in blue and wore a yellow rose corsage. The bridegroom's brother, John, served as best man.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Them, 787 Park avenue west, parents of the bridegroom. Twenty guests were entertained. The bridal table was centered with a three tiered wedding cake.

The bride, a graduate of Madison high school, has been employed as a bookkeeper at the Old Reliable Window Cleaning company. Mr. Them attended the Shelby high school, and he is now employed at the Tappan Stove company.

Mr. and Mrs. Them are making their home at 214 Lexington avenue.

Informally Speaking...

By MARIANNE

AS IT WOULD be natural to expect at a holiday season, much of today's news is about our Mansfield college students and what they're doing while away at school. . . . Ralph Arlin, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold W. Arlin, was initiated into Alpha Tau Omega fraternity at Purdue university this week. . . . A sophomore there this year, Ralph is a member of the R. O. T. C. and plays in a campus orchestra, which furnished music for a military ball last weekend. . . . He's majoring in aeronautical engineering, and is looking forward to Christmas vacation, when he'll be home for a visit.

A Mansfield student at Kent State university, James P. Richardson, recently participated in the Ohio Valley conference convention, held at Murray State Teachers college in Murray, Ky. This convention consisted of representatives from International Relations clubs of Ohio, West Virginia and Kentucky, and Jim was one of six delegates of the International Relations club from Kent State sent to the sessions. He gave a paper on "Effective War on Industry and Labor." His mother, as you probably know, is Mrs. Della P. Richardson.

A number of promotions were announced recently in the Reserve Officers' Training Corps at Ohio State university at Columbus, and a Mansfielder was among those named. . . . Rolin B. Gettles (son of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Gettles) now is a first lieutenant. . . . Oh yes, and Warren E. Edwards, a student there from Willard, was promoted to the rank of captain.

MOST all of you probably remember that Milena Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Miller, left here in September to enroll at a school of art and design in New York City. . . . Well, in case you want to write to her, the morning mail brought word that she's now residing at the American Woman's club—the address being 353 West 57th street, New York City.

Did you meet Margaret Keegan while she was in town? She was here visiting with Mrs. Joseph Johnston for the past week, and now has returned to her home in Washington, D. C.

This was indeed a lucky day for Mr. and Mrs. G. W. DeYarmon, as they left for West Palm Beach, Fla., where they will spend the cold winter months at the Forrest Dale apartments. . . . Beth Critchfield is here from New Haven, Conn., now for a two-weeks' stay with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Critchfield. . . . The threesome went to Cleveland to spend Thanksgiving with their daughter and sister, Laone, yesterday.

AND speaking of visitors in town, Virginia Rupp came down from Cleveland, where she's a student at Flora Stone Mather college of Western Reserve university, to spend the Thanksgiving recess with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Rupp. . . . Barbara Kerr is here now too, vacationing with her mother, Mrs. Mary Kerr. . . . This, as you probably recall, is Barbara's senior year of study at Northwestern university in Evanston, Ill. . . . Kennagene Vernulya is at home from Ohio Wesleyan university in Delaware for the remainder of this week, and Albert Osborn came down from the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor.

Failure Can Be Inspiration

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A correspondent who, to my way of thinking, does not understand human nature has sent me a newspaper clipping about a girl who attempted to commit suicide but didn't succeed in anything but getting her name in the papers.

She took an overdose of sleeping powder and, as sometimes happens in such cases, the dose was too heavy to work. On returning to consciousness she said: "I'm afraid I'm going to get well. Physicians worked ten days to save the girl's life, all of which time she was in a coma.

Conclusively she has proved that her health is miraculous. Her young strong body is a thing at which to marvel. Why hasn't a girl still in her twenties, with such vitality, had youth's birthright to happiness? The motive she ascribed for the attempt on her life was that no one loved her. Her working surroundings were uncongenial, and she saw no other way out of a world that had no place for her.

I, for one, hope this girl is going to get well. Many persons who have been snatched from the brink have in some mysterious way been brought to the consciousness that life is worth living. Many have made surprising successes of life after the new leaf has been turned.

It's hard for oldsters to understand the despair that can completely overwhelm a girl of twenty. We know nothing is hopeless as long as there is youth with which to fight battles. At the moment, the world needs every pair of willing hands it can summon. If this girl has been disillusioned with life so early, here's her chance to do useful work.

If she would take training for some of the community work that must be done while the wives of men in training camps go back to their jobs, she would at least have the satisfaction of knowing that she's a useful cog in the scheme of things. Perhaps this is the turning of the tide for this modern Cinderella.

Influence of Sunday School Teachers

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

Reflecting on the values of Sunday school, I keep thinking of the good influence of the splendid persons who are teachers. True, a few of them are overpious, intolerant and lacking in ability to understand children and youth. Yet most of them are persons whom our children esteem, persons who inspire our children to want to do right and be useful citizens. I am sure the average Sunday school teacher does more good to children as a person than as a teacher.

Bent Twigs.

In the Sunday school I attended as a boy—a really rural Sunday school—there were among my teachers Charley McCulloh, George Yeakle, Frank Sosey. I always looked up to them. So did others in that community. I also went to day school to Charley McCulloh, the greatest teacher I ever had. I still revere the memories of those great souls. Only Frank Sosey is left. I still look up to him. When I was a small boy in the ungraded rural school, he was "big" and I marveled at the way he could spell and cipher.

Mrs. Myers grew up in a similar Sunday school.

As in the community in which I grew up, the leaders of this Sunday school have been the outstanding citizens. Of the adult classes there have been Chauncey Allen, Ed Clark, Pete Weber.

While I was sitting in Pete's class one Sunday last summer, a little bored with the lesson, Colonel Walter Sheard, of the U. S. Marines, who sat beside me, whispered seriously: "I often marvel at what this Sunday school and church mean to this community."

Teen Age.

Also the teachers of the teen age and younger children of this large rural Sunday school are outstanding young citizens. Unless a person commands respect in the rural community he hardly can become a Sunday school teacher. While this is not so true in the city Sunday school where the teacher is not known so well by everybody, most Sunday school teachers are wholesome persons.

I often wish Sunday school teachers would spend less time on theological theories and more on living unselfishly with others; less on talking about things in the Bible and more on motivating children and youth to know the great stories and poems of the Bible. I wish Sunday school teachers would talk less and get their children to talk more.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"If anyone else calls you," Katherine added, "what shall I tell them?"

My father's answer, delayed for an instant, was decisive.

"Take the number, so that I can call back, and tell them I will be back in a very few minutes," he directed, and then he went to a cabinet in a corner of his room and took from it a compact bundle which I recognized with excitement that I had difficulty in controlling.

It was his finger print outfit, one especially designed for his convenience, and I thrilled at the sight of it with its mute message that all my father's wisdom and experience, fruits of his long career as a government secret operative, with many celebrated coups behind him, would be thrown into the search for the man responsible for this mysterious adventure upon which Marion appeared to have embarked.

I made short work of the drive to Ticer's, noting with relief as we reached the door that the head of the house and his son were still absent. Mrs. Ticer's eyes widened as she saw my father, but she set chairs for us with only a brief word of greeting, for she too has learned his dislike of talkativeness when he is working out a problem.

"Mrs. Ticer," he began as soon as we were seated, "I want to ask you some questions concerning the man who came here with Marion, and I want you to be very careful, very exact in your replies. Take all the time you wish in answering them, and try to remember every detail about this man."

"I'll do my best, sir," she replied when his pause and his look at her signified he expected an answer.

"I know you will," he said in kindly fashion, and then he leaned forward in his chair and put the tips of his fingers together in a gesture most familiar to me

"First," he said, "did this man wear gloves, or were his hands bare?"

"He wore gloves," she replied at once, and I saw the tips of my father's fingers press into each other, the only sign that her answer meant anything important to him.

"On both hands?" he queried. "You are very sure of this?"

"Yes, I noticed it first thing, for the men around here don't wear gloves much, you know."

My father nodded his acceptance of this point, and then he pressed his question in another form.

"And you're very sure he did not take off either glove while he was in here?"

"As sure as I'm certain I'm living," she said a bit dramatically. "I was so upset by the way he rushed in and took Marion away and the way he talked to her that I never took my eyes off him from the second he came in the door until he rushed Marion out of it. And I'm positive that he had his gloves on every single second. I only wish I was as sure of going to Heaven as I am of that."

"I am sure you can be positive on that point also, Mrs. Ticer," my father said with a slight, old-fashioned bow, and the slow smile he generally accords our neighbor whose little ways and speech greatly amuse him.

"I'd be glad to take your word for it," she said demurely, and he went on to his next question after a chuckle so quickly repressed that I was not sure I had heard it. But of one odd thing my intuition assured me. He was not disappointed to learn that the man had worn gloves, even though he had found no need for his fingerprinting outfit. Indeed, for some inexplicable reason I felt that Mrs. Ticer's inflexible assertion that Marion's sinister escort had not bared his hands at any time was distinctly gratifying to him.

Hands Tell Much of Personality

By MME QUI VIVE

When you meet a girl for the first time and shake hands, and her hand is limp and clammy, what sort of an impression do you get? That she's just a poor fish, isn't that so? She may be shy and self-conscious, or she may not like the looks of you and so refrains from being cordial, or she hasn't nice manners.

There is the flabby hand, which is revealing. It belongs to the lazy girl who won't try to be vivid or vibrant because it is too much bother. She has soft, relaxed lips and, if she is thoroughly lazy, she has more curves to her body than the laws of beauty permit. We are ever in the making or the unmaking, all of us. It is what we do, what we think, what we say that makes us charming or otherwise. Beauty—true beauty, that is—begins in the mind and the heart.

The friendly, gracious, tolerant woman gives you a nice warm finger squeeze when she shakes hands. Having developed a philosophy of her own she has affection for her fellow creatures. She treats them as they like to be treated. She is beloved by all who know here.

Hands that make gestures, that flutter in the air, are ever on the move, belong to the catty girl. Nobody can wedge a word in when she is around. Her chatter may be vivacious and delightful but, if continued for too long a time, it wears one down. Much more talking goes on in the world than is necessary. One should talk only when one has something interesting to say. But that is another story.

It is a pleasure to observe beautiful hands that are at ease, that are not twiddling their fingers, but assume graceful poses. They are restful to the eye, a treat these days of tension. Suppose you watch your hands now and then, see what they are doing: it is a good idea. Let us hope that your fingers don't pull at your ear lobe, or fiddle with a button, or keep pushing back a curl. That sort of thing is tiresome to the observer.

Because feminine hands drive motor cars, wash dishes and bathe babies is no reason why they can't be attractive and top notch. Soap and water will keep them clean, hand lotions will keep them smooth, good sense and the cultivation of a tranquil disposition will make their behavior pretty.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

WHEN NOT TO LEAD TOP

AVERAGE players are usually taught that they should lead their top card when opening the suit bid by their partners. For years expert players violated that upon proper occasion until finally along came the late Wilbur C. Whitehead with advice as to just when a different card usually was a better lead. First of all, it was generally when you held at least four cards of your partner's suit, lacking the ace or touching honors. Secondly, it was when you had reason to believe the declarer had a secondary honor such as a twice guarded queen, which might get knocked off by you if you underled three headed by the ace or queen. In this case leading high would establish his card.

Everybody hates to be in a contract of five in a major suit or four in No Trumps, because it merely makes your job harder than being in a bare game, without any concomitant rewards for the greater risk. But South was lucky this time, because he had in the West a defender who always leads the top of his partner's suit.

After winning the first trick, West repeated with the J, won by the A, and East made it a third round, hoping that by forcing the dummy to ruff he could protect his own trump honor. But the Q won, a diamond being discarded, leaving declarer in position to have three rounds of high trumps. A small spade to the Q made possible one heart ruff, another to the K was followed by a second heart ruff, setting up the suit, and the spade A settled East's J. The diamond Q was an entry now to dummy, from which a heart furnished a diamond discard, making the contract.

If West had led his fourth-best club to the A, a club return would have trapped the Q, the third round of the suit compelling dummy to ruff. That would have made it impossible to shut out East's spade J, which would then have taken the setting trick.

East	South	West	North
1 ♣	1 ♠	Pass	2 ♥
Pass	3 ♠	Pass	4 ♥
Pass	5 ♦	Pass	5 ♠

(Dealer. North. North-South vulnerable.)

Why should correct bidding, with all four players showing something, lead South into the correct contract on this deal, instead of the wrong one?
